13 HINNOY SURVIVORS RESCUED

Two Days' Ordeal In Open Boat.

WATCHMAN SIGHTS FLARE IN DARK.

Colombo, Yesterday.

The keen eye of the night watchman aboard the K.K.K. steamer, Naples Maru, saved the lives of 13 survivors of the ill-fated Norwegian steamer Hinnoy, which was wrecked by an explosion 300 miles west of Colombo on Thursday.

A graphic story of the explosion and the ordeal of being two days in an open boat without food or water, was related by the rescued men on arrival here this evening.

The steamer was bound for Hong Kong from Antwerp with a cargo of chemicals when the explosion occurred. Fourteen members of the crew were killed instantly, and 14 other put off in a small boat, having no time to take in either food or water.

One man died of exposure, and the remaining 13 lay in salt water to escape the tropical heat. Five of the survivors were badly injured.

Seven vessels passed the boat, and in spite of the attempts made, the survivors were unnoticed, and hope was abandoned. Then the Japanese steamer, Naples Maru was heard approaching. Owing to the darkness, there was little hope of being seen, but one member of the shipwrecked party struck what few matches remained.

The faint light proved to be their salvation, the watchman on the passing steamer observing the flicker and giving the warning. The vessel reversed her engines and the sufferers were taken on board and rushed to Colombo. —Reuter.

DUKE OF ABRUZZI'S DEATH

Rome, Yesterday.

The death occurred here to-day of Prince Luigi Amedeo Guiseppe Maria Ferdinando Francesco, Duke of Abruzzi, in his 61st year. —Reuter.

He ascended Mount St. Elias, Alaska in 1896, and four years later he led an expedition to the North Pole region, penetrating near to the Pole than anyone else at that time. His party reached Lat. 86 degrees 23 north, thus beating Nansen's previous record.

In 1906 he conducted an expedition to Mount Ruwenzori and three years later to Mount Kenya.

He commanded a squadron during the Tripoli War, and during the European War he served from 1915 to 1917 as Commander-in-Chief of the Italian Navy.

WHITE PAPER CONDEMNED IN LONDON PRESS

"India's Black Paper."

PROPOSALS TERMED A SURRENDER.

London, Yesterday.

Condemnation of the Government's proposals for a reformed constitution for India, published on Friday, features the British press to-day.

The issue of the White Paper is given great prominence in the national morning papers, all of which have devoted their leading articles to the subject.

The Daily Telegraph stands alone in its support of the Government's policy, while The Times, which publishes an eight-page supplement on the topic, declines to make comment at this early stage.

The Morning Post describes the proposals as "India's Black Paper," adding that it is not a deed of partnership but an instrument of abdication. The Government's offer of the retirement of European and Indian civil servants on a proportionate pension for the completion of service in "a calm assumption that the new constitution becomes law and seems rather a contemptuous gesture to Parliament," the newspaper continues.

The Daily Telegraph welcomes the proposals as making "an impression that is prudent as well as looking forward to the statesmanship on the part of those who admit that Government without consent is no longer practicable as a policy in India." (Continued on Page 18.)

PREMIER'S QUESTIONS FOR MUSSOLINI.

Vital Conference.

Rome, Yesterday.

Diplomatic circles and awaiting with deepest interest the momentous meeting between Signor Mussolini, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon to-day, at a time when there exists the most delicate situation in Europe since 1918.

It is understood that the questions to be discussed are firstly, whether it is possible to save the Disarmament Conference on the lines of Mr. MacDonald's latest proposals, and secondly, the situation which will arise if the Nazis violate the neutral zone in Rhineland.

Mr. MacDonald, it is understood, will ask Signor Mussolini to state his attitude towards any German violation of the treaties, which is most important in view of the suggestions of an Italian-German alliance and the long continued coolness between France and Italy, which accentuates the division of Europe into two hostile camps.

The dangerous situation in the Polish Corridor, Yugoslavia and Austria, will also be discussed. —Reuter.

DIVORCE ASSISTS MARRIAGE

Women Forcing Men
To Improve.

NO NEED FOR ALARM

Omaha, Nebraska.

There's no need to feel alarm at the increasing number of divorces, says Mrs. Weber of Omaha Municipal University. It's just a sign that women are forcing men to improve.

As Mrs. Weber, philosophy instructor and mother of four children, looks at it—women are demonstrating that they will not put up with cruelty and other distasteful conditions any longer.

"Marriage is on the remake," she declares, "and divorce is the assertion of woman's independence. Women, who obtain most of the divorces, are forcing men to improve."

And when they complete their task there will be fewer and fewer divorces. That will be the happy time when responsibilities are evenly divided between husband and wife, she philosophizes.

"It all depends," she added with a smile, "on how fast the women can reform the men."—Reuter.

Pioneer Pilot Burnt
To Death.

Wau, New Guinea.

It burst into flames, and both the pilot, Mr. Frank Drayton, and an American passenger, Mr. Lewis Harper, were burned to death.

Mr. Drayton could be seen making frantic efforts to release himself from the wreckage, but the flames prevented anyone getting near enough to help him.

The crash was also seen by Mr. Drayton's child.

Mr. Drayton was a pioneer pilot of the New Guinea air route, and was piloting a Moth machine. Mr. Harper was a surveyor employed at Bulolo.—Reuter.

HEROIC POSTWOMAN DIES IN ITALY.

Stuck To Post During Austrian Invasion.

Milan.

A postmistress who stayed at her post throughout the Austrian invasion during the Great War, and communicated with her countrymen by signals, has recently died in a village near Venice. Her name was Mrs. Angiolina Ceccotto.

She kept watch over the office safe, containing a large sum deposited by soldiers who had been stationed in the place, and—by means of signals—kept in touch with the Italian aeroplanes which were continually flying over the invaded territory.

She gave them valuable information although she knew that she risked being shot as a spy. After the Armistice, the Province of Venice decorated her with the silver valour medal.—Reuter.

BRITISH SILVER IN BECHUANALAND.

Legal Tender Decree
Uncarries Hoards.

Bulawayo.

As a result of a recent visit of a deputation from the Tati Concession to the High Commissioner at Cape Town, British silver will still continue to be legal tender in the Bechuanaland Protectorate and that the proclamation calling in such coinage will be withdrawn. An extraordinary result of the proclamation has been the bringing in of a large amount of old silver coinage which had been hoarded by the natives.

These included several William IV, George III, and IV coins and a number of denominations of the early reign of Victoria. Most of these were in a state of good preservation, some of them looking quite new though 100 years old.—Reuter.

Trend Of Modern Jewellery

Round - Cut Brilliants The Mode

DIAMOND HAIR-GRIP

RUBIES and emeralds are the new season's gems. Among all the precious stones these two have been creeping steadily towards the forefront of fashion recently.

Nineteen thirty three will see them first favourites. If your purse cannot run to rubies then you should choose the Mexican fire opal.

This is an attractive stone of an orangy-red colour. Jade is to remain a favourite. The new long earrings feature this stone.

Waterfall jewellery is also to be popular. Other of the new earrings are set with diamond drops to resemble a waterfall.

Ultra modern designs such as square-cut, baguette, or baton gems are disappearing and the New Year fashions show round-cut brilliants.

Among the most original jewellery is a bracelet, flexible and ribbon-like. In the centre is an ornament which consists of two clip brooches that can be detached and worn separately.

Another is a diamond hair-grip. It can be worn as a brooch for clipping to the lapel of a coat, or the neck or belt of a dress without any alteration.

Most important is the fact that when its owner becomes tired of it in this style, a jeweller can remove the grip portion and replace it with a pin. It is thus converted into an ordinary brooch at a very small cost.

Watch glasses frequently get broken, especially those worn by athletic persons.

The newest wrist watches have reversible faces, which slide out and over for the wearer to see the time.

Points About 1933 Handbags

Day Bags Slightly Larger.

BROWN FAVOURED COLOUR

EVENING bags this year are less ornate, due principally to the fashion for velvet. Panné velvet, with its crushed pile, and corduroy are used. Then there is crushed ermine, new to bag-making. It has an extraordinarily rich, deep pile very like the fur from which it is named.

An evening bag and tippet to match made of this is a good combination. In shades of all colours, both are lined with self-coloured crepe-de-chine, and the bag is mounted on a chromium frame.

Unpolished Lizard.

New day bags are slightly larger this season, the most fashionable shape being the top-opening pochette. Perhaps the most favoured colour is brown, in the darker shades, although there is wine, or grey, or combinations of both. The only really effective bag for use with grey is unpolished lizard, since leather dyed grey is always green or blue tinged.

Pony skin, which is similar to calf, only thickened in texture and undyed llama make their appearance. The ever increasing variety of reptile skins enables really good bags to be made in African lizard, chameleon, and anaconda, costing no more than a guinea. I see no reason why scientific reptile farming should not ultimately bring the price level of skins down to that of the more common feathers. Good iguana and crocodile still remain high in price.

1933 Gadgets.

Designs worthy of notice include several really useful "gadget" bags. The top-opening pochette is fitted with fountain pen and pencil of reputable make, with a notebook arranged in pockets within the bag. There is adequate space for your cheque book.

The idea of fixing a watch on the outside of a bag has been revived, and is meeting with considerable success, chiefly because the whole thing—watch and calf bag with a good artificial silk lining—costs only a pound.

For those who smoke there is a pochette with automatic cigarette case fitted in the flap. One rolls down an innocent looking mount with the thumb and a cigarette appears. This fitting saves space in the bag.

Another bag, designed to foil bandits and bag-snatchers, is carried by slipping the entire forearm through a wide, shaped sheath which takes the place of the usual handle or loop at the back.

DRESSES WORN AT PARIS PLAY

Simplicity For Evening Wear.

AT the dress rehearsal of M. Bernatein's "Le Secret," revived by the Comedie Francaise, there were in the house many small, flat feather hats, white and coloured, and grey and white hats were worn with fur and fur-trimmed coats. Astrakhan coats with little caps were worn over bright dresses; with a plum coloured dress and hat was worn a long coat of black Persian lamb.

A Robin Hood green woollen dress with green velvet went with a small green velvet cap and a black coat.

Black dresses are draped at the neck with scarves lined with flame coloured crepe georgette; a black dress with a coat trimmed with astrakhan has a small feather hat of flame coloured feathers.

Another black dress and coat has rose velvet sleeves and a close fitting cap of rose velvet. A black dress with varnished satin at the waist and neck had a white feather cap and a long coat of black caracul.

Simple Dresses For Evening. The dresses in the play are simple and up-to-date. Stage dresses

Colours For Bridge Parties

FOR bridge and tea parties women wear satin, velvet, or lace. Green velvet, red-brown, golden-brown, violet, and pale blue are colours in fashion. Black dresses are brightened by colour at the waist and neck.

Little jackets and boleros of silver lace, velvet, or lame may be put on over a plain velvet, satin, or lace dress. Bags and shoes are ornamental. Jewels are simply set, and the intricate settings of the 18th century are now copied.

reflect current fashions, and, if rich, are in good taste. In the evening ample dresses are the rule, with good jewels and furs. Velvet generally gives a touch of bright colour.

Black lace dresses are worn with short velvet wraps and long velvet coats with fur collars or capes are made in deep, warm colours. Such simplicity may be misleading, for the cut is subtle.

Many dresses, though not cut straight, are not entirely cut on the cross. With figured materials also a pattern is cut about and changed by being set with others. There is no uniformity.

LADIES!

With the approaching of years, you should give more and particular attention to the three most valuable assets of your beauty: — your EYES, CHIN and NECK. While you are radiantly lovely, the menace of the years passes by unnoticed; but that is the correct time to prepare against the ravages of increasing age. — that sagging of the muscles, dulling of the eyes and wrinkling which ruin a woman's glory.

Lucy Glitters Pays $37.60

"Leo" Frost Just Noses Out "Johnny" Heard

NIGHT STAR TRIUMPHANT

LADY PEEL recorded her first triumph at the Valley when Mr. D. Black, the most promising of the Novice jockeys, brought Lucy Glitters home to win the Rosehill Handicap "B" Class from the champion jockey on City of Melbourne at the Second Extra Race Meeting yesterday. It was undoubtedly the most popular win of the afternoon, and paid $37.60 for a win.

No fewer than six favourites failed in the Nine events, only Diana Bay, King's Parade and Mayflower justifying the confidence placed in them. Dividends, however, were never very high, $37.60 for a win on Lucy Glitters being the highest of the afternoon.

Mr. "Leo" Frost, the champion jockey, proved to be the most successful rider, registering two wins and three thirds as against Mr. Johnny Heard's two wins, two seconds and two thirds. Mr. S. N. Pan recorded two wins and a third, while Mr. G. U. da Rosa had a first, a second and two thirds.

Night Star, the champion Australian pony, successfully withstood Woodland Stag's second challenge and paid the useful dividend of $18.60 for a win. This was the pony's fourth success of the season, but he won by only a length in a good finish.

A false start, which led to the breaking of the starting gate and the fall of two jockeys, occurred in the Colonial Stakes, and provided the thrill of the afternoon.

The Cavalier (Mr. Yue Shun-wa) and Perse (Mr. H. M. Remedios) got away to a false start. The latter pony broke the gate and Mr. Remedios was consequently unseated by the gate itself. The Cavalier threw his rider and proceeded to get his back leg entangled in the rope while keeping company with Perse round the track. Neither rider was hurt.

After proceeding once round the track the ponies were eventually caught. Perse actually started and came third! It was, however, thought advisable to withdraw The Cavalier owing to several cuts on his leg inflicted by the rope round his leg.

Mayflower led throughout the race being challenged by Perse at the football stands and Solar Star in the straight. This was Mr. Choy's second win of this season.

The unplaced ponies finished in the following order: Night Patrol, King's Company, Golly Eyes and Foolscap.

King's Parade fulfilled all expectations in the Commonwealth Handicap "E" Class and romped home an easy winner. The surprise of this race was the fine showing given by Auction Bridge which was only just beaten out of a place by El Fa.

Blairo was in a fairly good position at the start of the Commonwealth Handicap "C" Class but he failed disappointingly even after having secured a useful position at the Rock where Alexandra Hall led with California second. It was only by three lengths. Both Deed and Alexandra Hall were tiring badly and Mr. Needa almost caught the latter at the post on Mon Tallman.

Wayward Stag, a pony that looked very promising in the earlier stages, cracked up badly after the Rock had been passed.

Mr. Heard recorded a popular win on Royal Flush, though he was fortunate to nose out King Salmon in the most thrilling finish of the afternoon. Royal Flush, King Salmon and Amoy were neck and neck at the stands and it was superior jockeyship that won the race.

City of Melbourne (Mr. Frost) set a terrific pace in the Rosehill Handicap "B" Class and covered the first half mile in 0.54.0. At the Rock he led by almost ten lengths. Evening Star (Mr. Pan) preferring to take things a little more easily, hung on grimly to reap her reward in the straight when superior stamina told its tale, and Mr. Black came through with a fine last quarter to win by four lengths.

All credit is due to Mr. Black, whose win yesterday was the seventh of his career. He judged the race perfectly and provided the big surprise of the afternoon. Lady Peel led her first winner in amid cheers.

Mr. "Johnny" Heard enjoyed a triumph on Daylight Eve in the Commonwealth Handicap "B" Class when he came through to beat Champagne Bay, the favourite, by two lengths, and Mr. G. U. da Rosa caused a minor upset when he beat Mr. Needa on Jungle Jim for third place.

Mr. Dunbar's ponies did not perform as expected, and as a result he recorded only one win instead of three, Diana Bay proving the only reliable entry. Mr. Heard on Bag and Baggage was beaten by four lengths in the Commonwealth Handicap "A" Class. Hettman's defeat for second place was in the nature of a surprise. Sadko was a good fourth.

Fortia proved disappointing in the Rosehill Handicap "A" Class. In spite of her fitness and attack of boots, however, Mr. Heard rode her into third place ahead of The Giraffe. Night Star took the lead and Woodland Stag followed five lengths in the rear almost all the way round. Mr. Frost brought his mount through with a great rush in the straight, but he was a length behind at the post. It is now almost definitely established that the Star pony is the better of the two—this was their second clash.

Drawing the rails at the start Hey Tor was always in the lead though Black Velvet, which came fourth, and Jack O'Lantern were always within striking distance. Flying Boy, the favourite, was never in the race, and finished sixth.

H.K. LADIES BEATEN

SENSATIONAL WIN FOR THE RECREIO.

A. ALVES SCORES BRILLIANT DECIDING GOAL.

A SENSATIONAL triumph over the Hong Kong Ladies, undefeated champions for the past three years, yesterday at King's Park gave the Recreio Ladies the custody of the Southern Cup for runners-up in the Caer Clark Cup Hockey League. Last year the trophy was won by the St. Andrew's Ladies.

The Club de Recreio Ladies played a far more constructive game than their opponents, and this played a large part in their deserving victory. Their attacks were worked out with machine-like precision, while their defence was beyond reproach.

Hong Kong failed to maintain their excellent record, and gave their worst display this season. The whole team seemed to have gone stale, although the forward line was very dangerous at times. They possessed speed and good stick-work, but lacked the essential combination.

H. Knill and Mrs. Alan Jones were outstanding among the Hong Kong forwards, while E. O'Hagan was a tower of strength in the centre-half position.

A. Alves was the outstanding player on the field, her brilliant winning goal in the second half being the feature of the game. Her constructive play was excellent and she combined well with all her other forwards.

The Recreio backs, M. Banto and C. Osmond were very sound, both hitting hard and accurately. M. Alves, who played in the pivot position, fed her line of forwards with well directed passes.

The all-important factor in modern lawn tennis is speed and yet more speed. Other things being equal the man with that extra speed wins the match.

The new Spalding laminated multi-ply rackets are the fastest and most powerful ever produced. They can be strung to the highest possible tension without risk of warping thus giving tremendous pace to the ball as it leaves the racket.

The Spalding range of rackets

SPIRIT OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Bedrock Virtues Of Our Race

World Of Reality Is World of School

COURAGE, SERVICE AND SACRIFICE

(By Stephen Foot, Bursar of Eastbourne College.)

GREY walls, green grass, chapel and playing-field, classroom and dormitory; what is behind it all? Can we define the spirit that gives it life? English public schools are quite certainly a mystery to foreigners, and dare one say it?—perhaps something of a mystery to parents, school-masters, and even to the boys themselves. Wherein lies their strength, whence comes their permanence, what is their contribution to the history of our race?

First let us appreciate the significance of the problem. Here, in this island, alone among all the nations of the world, we take our children from their mothers and send them away to the care of strangers for ten impressionable years. From the age of 8 to the age of 18 these children are so placed that home and parents are only the background at their lives. An important background, perhaps, probably even the deciding factor in their development; but only a background.

The world of reality in these children's lives is the world of school, with its friendships, its games, its loyalties, its hopes, its disappointments, and its achievements. This is the world in which they live; their home is a place they visit in the holidays. For hundreds of years this has been the choice of the favoured few; now it is the custom of all who can afford it.

More even than that, because there are many parents who are prepared to make any sacrifice in order that their children may go away to school. Why is England alone among all the countries of the earth in maintaining this system of education? If we can answer this, then we have an answer to the problem we have to solve: What is the spirit of the public school?

Vision of The Early Foundations. A thousand years ago Augustine recalled that the Church must concern itself with education, and the monks of Canterbury organised a school; 550 years ago a poor man growing rich remembered the days of his poverty, and Winchester was born. Sixty years later England had a pious King who founded Eton. Eighty years ago there died a soldier duke, and a school was built to his memory. And in between, and ever since, there have been men of vision who felt their life's work incomplete until they had founded an English public school.

What was the vision these men had—and how have we fulfilled it? The answers would be many and varied; many because there are different ways in which the vision can be manifest, and varied as the light of the vision was sometimes bright and sometimes dim. On what does the spirit of the school depend? Certainly not on numbers—Shrewsbury in its greatest days had less than 200 boys, while Uppingham in the time of Thring seldom, if ever, exceeded 300.

Where shall we find the true spirit, and what will it be? Shall we go to the shadow of the Abbey walls, to the cloisters once trodden by the feet of monks, choir stalls of oak, stained with the wear of centuries? What spirit shall we find there? Surely it will be the spirit of worship, prayer and devotion. All whose lives are partly spent there are in debt to the Abbey school.

And if we go to the school of granite, standing surrounded by great hills, fine forests, things that grow slowly out of the heart of England, shall we not find a breed of men who deal with the elemental truths, law-givers, judges, scholars, and the like? Then let us turn to the great chalk downs of England, the coast which for centuries has seen Armadas come and go, the cliffs from which we watch the ships sailing across the sea. Missionaries, soldiers, sailors, ready and longing to go to strange lands, leaving their bones perhaps in some far-off continent; that is what this school breeds.

Now to a bleak stone building, standing four-square to all the winds of heaven, a hard school, a rough school, where all are taught to serve. From here go forth to the far parts of our Empire administrators, Civil Servants; lone outposts of British rule, steadfast and strong; they embody the spirit of service.

We see then that there is no spirit of the public school uniform and regular. Each school has its own spirit, which it breathes on all that come within its walls. This spirit in every school is compounded of foundation, tradition, locality; and to this spirit has contributed in some measure every master and every boy throughout its history.

Some boys catch the spirit during their first day at school, others wait to catch it until they pray their last prayer on the night they leave. On some the spirit falls and passes by; but those to whom it is given in full measure never lose it though their lives be long.

Let us turn to another picture, one which must have come to many as they listened to the King—on Christmas Day: the picture of England as the heart of the Empire. This picture, to us and to all the world outside, is clearer to-day than it has ever been. The reason is clear.

Leaders In Our Times Of Trial.

Three times in less than twenty years England has been beaten to her knees; and it is only at moments such as these that her true character appears. The Great War of 1914, the national strike of 1926, last year's economic crisis—all these were events of a magnitude without parallel in Britain's history.

It is stern shocks which test foundations, and the foundations here stood firm. These testing times have revealed us to ourselves.

Whence came our leaders in these hours of trial? Was it from the public schools? Yes, certainly they played their part, but there were many more outside. The spirit of leadership, of courage, sacrifice and service came from cottage as well as manor, from village school no less than cloistered courts. Here was no rare plant reared only with greatest care; this spirit was everywhere throughout the land, in peasant woman as well as King.

What, then, is the solution? Have we found the answer to our riddle? Yes, there is doubt no longer. The spirit of the public schools is the spirit of our race.

BRIDGE NOTES

PORTLAND CLUB CUP LESSONS.

Opening Bid Must Be Sound.

By CAPT. LINDSAY MUNDY.

THE representatives of the Devonshire Club, who won the Portland Club cup, are naturally, as a team, very pleased at the result, especially as we won the final by such a big margin.

However, at dinner time, after playing twenty-four boards, we were not feeling so happy, as we were only 180 points ahead, and were conscious of having thrown away three games, in addition to missing another game and slam through taking a wrong even chance. Doubtless our opponents were feeling much the same way.

These lapses were amply compensated for in the evening session. Having very carefully studied the records of the hands, I cannot find any hand on which any member of the team put a foot wrong, or failed to get the best result possible.

I have claimed the results as a triumph for the Direct System. Among the letters of congratulations which I have received, one opponent (of a previous round) queries that claim, denying that one of our pairs was playing the Direct System. Let me therefore repeat the substance of what I wrote in this column on December 31. My partner and I were undoubtedly playing the system.

Our other pair played something extremely near to it. I can find no instance where they gained by departing from it, though at times they lost by doing so. By this I do not mean anything derogatory to them; on the contrary, I am full of admiration for their play throughout the tournament.

Going For Slam.

The first four hands of the afternoon session resulted in a rubber to North-South in each room, the only feature of interest being that in Hand 2 the Devonshire made a partial score in each room. Hand 5 was somewhat sensational.

North.

S—A, Q, 2.
H—9, 8, 7, 6.
D—J, 6, 4.
C—A, Q, 8.

West.

S—10, 8.
H—K, J, 5, 2.
D—7, 5.
C—K, J, 9, 8, 4.

South.

S—Nil.
H—A, Q, 10, x, x.
D—A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8.
C—x, x.

East.

S—K, J, 9, x, x, x, x, x.
H—Nil.
D—x, x.
C—10, x, x.

In each room North opened with the not quite justifiable bid of One No-Trump. The Devonshire South pre-empted 3 D, North 3 N.T. East interposed 4 S, and South being chicaned in that suit jumped to 7 D, was doubled and went down two tricks.

I cannot blame him. He was entitled to find his partner with three guarded suits, which must include the King of Hearts, and almost certainly high cards in Spades and Clubs on which to get rid of his two losing Clubs.

Crockford's South pre-empted in Hearts, was raised to Four and jumped to Six. Playing in the West position, I doubled him and he redoubled, and was certainly unlucky to find both honours over him after being supported in his suit, and his partner having opened with a No-Trump. The moral in both rooms seems to be "Let your opening bids be sound." On Hand 6 the Devonshire East-West missed the game on these hands:

West.

S—x.
H—J, x, x.
D—A, x.
C—A, J, 10, x, x, x, x.

East.

S—A, Q, 10, x.
H—x.
D—K, x, x, x, x.
C—Q, 9, x.

East opened with 1 D. West pre-empted 3 C, and East rashly bid 3 N.T. Instead of supporting the Club bid. He was three down, whereas Crockford's made the game in Clubs.

Weak No Trump.

On Hand 7 the Devonshire recovered from this blow, as their North-South made four by cards in 3 N.T. doubled, while Crockford's North-South just made their contract in Three Spades, not enough for game. This difference in result was brought about by the Devonshire West opening with Three Hearts on

S—A.
H—K, J, x, x, x, x.
D—K, Q, J, x, x.
C—10.

while the Crockford's West opened with only One Heart, which let in North with a pre-emptive bid of Two Spades.

Hand 8 was uneventful, and on Hand 9 East-West made game in each room. This made a rubber for Crockford's, but not for the Devonshire on account of our missing the game on Hand 6. We are, however, a game up in Room II, but on Hand 12 Crockford's got a game ahead in Room I. on these hands:

North.

S—K, x, x, x.
H—J, x, x.
D—K, J, x.
C—K, Q, x.

West.

S—J, x.
H—K, Q, x, x, x.
D—Q, x, x, x.
C—x, x.

South.

S—9, x, x, x, x.
H—A, 10, 9.
D—A, 10, x.
C—x, x, x.

East.

S—A, Q, 10.
H—x, x.
D—x, x, x.
C—A, J, 10, 9, x.

In each room North again opened one no-trump on too weak a hand. Crockford's East doubled, South redoubled, West bid two Hearts, and South doubled them out. In the other room the Devonshire left Crockford's one N.T. alone and got them down two tricks. On Hand 13 East-West went game and rubber in each room. At this stage the Devonshire were a rubber to the bad, the worst position we were in at any time. I will conclude the review of the afternoon session next week.

Disarmament.

MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD'S last-minute effort to save the Disarmament Conference from collapse is commendable but it is improbable that the British Premier will accomplish much more than effecting a vague and ineffective compromise. The British plan submitted on Friday is bold and comprehensive, and its adoption would prove of inestimable benefit to the world. Nevertheless, the plan will meet with strong opposition from most European nations and it is significant that already hostility has been expressed in France and Germany. The Disarmament Conference was convened over 13 months ago and, as a French cynic pointed out, this is the fifty-seventh plan proposal put forward. Apart from the constant reiteration of grandiloquent platitudes, nothing has been achieved at the Conference, which the world has long regarded with impatience not unmixed with mild contempt. For some months the Conference has been doomed to utter and complete failure, and in the view of many it has been unnecessarily prolonged. Britain's sincerity on Disarmament has never been in doubt, but no other nation has followed her lead in reducing military strength. In fact Britain has "practised what she preaches" to such an extent that grave fears are entertained that Britain has conceded too much, particularly in the drastic reduction of the Navy. Nationalism is at the moment too dominant, particularly in Central Europe, to permit any progress towards pacifism. A study of the proposals embodied in the British plan illustrates its impracticability. In fixing the size of Continental land forces it is suggested that France, Italy, Germany and Poland be each limited to 200,000 troops. This would entail the sacrifice by France of her military superiority and would also permit Germany to re-arm 100,000 more men. France will grant no concession, while Germany, more defiant under the Hitler regime, insists on equality. Apart from considerations of the other Powers, it is impossible to reconcile the German and French policies. The plan is more reasonable in regard to naval proposals, which are generally designed to hold the situation created by the London and Washington treaties until the naval conference meets in 1935 to regulate the naval armaments of all Powers on a satisfactory basis for the future. There is some prospect of agreement on limitation of military aircraft, but the modification to the suggested figure of 500 may be considered extreme. Britain, possessing 1,434 fighting aeroplanes would be called upon for approximately a two-thirds reduction, but, being only the fifth air Power, she would have to surrender less than, say, France who possesses over 2,200 military aircraft. If nations were really earnest about Disarmament, the British plan, as in the case of many of the earlier proposals, notably the Hoover plan for a general one-third reduction, is almost ideal as a preliminary step general Disarmament, but it contains the fatal weakness of demanding concessions from countries which are not prepared to make them. The present grave uncertainty and disquietude in European create an atmosphere unfavourable to Disarmament negotiations and the time is made more inopportune by the Far East situation, the conflicts in South America, renewed friction over the Polish Corridor, the continued coolness between France and Italy, and, most important of all, the election of Hitler in Germany, rightly or wrongly, is determined to endure her military inferiority no longer. The 100,000 troops allowed Germany by the Peace Treaty are but a part of the armed forces, composed mainly of adherents to various political parties, the Nazis particularly. Hitler has at his disposal a considerable force of trained soldiers and his former bellicose utterances are now recalled with some trepidation by his neighbours. The occupation, last week, of Kehl, on the banks of the Rhine, by Nazi Storm Troops evoked an official protest by France and it is feared that dangerous friction may develop at any moment. In the light of this, and other circumstances, Disarmament negotiations are likely to fail, and it is considered that Mr. MacDonald faces an impossible task. It would seem that the best result that may be hoped for is arrival at some form of compromise that would check any mad armaments race. If Mr. MacDonald can achieve even this result he will have attained a measure of success greater than any anticipated before he left for Geneva.

PRIZE - DAY
AT MUNSANG
COLLEGEBishop Hall Presents
Awards.PRINCIPAL AND STAFF COMPLIMENTED.

The Right Reverend R. O. Hall, Bishop of Victoria, distributed the prizes at the Annual Prize-Giving of the Munsang College, Kowloon, which was held yesterday afternoon at 3 p.m.

Dr. S. W. Tso, L.L.D., O.B.E., Chairman of the College Council presided. Mr. N. L. Smith, Director of Education was present. Before the prize-giving Bishop Hall was presented with the key of the new Assembly Hall, and formally declared the Hall open. The congregation then sang the school hymn.

Those present then entered the Hall and the Principal of the College read the Annual Report.

Diplomas were then presented to the following by His Lordship, Bishop Hall:

Lee Wai-cheung, Yim Chup-ko, Chung Heung-koy, Chan Kim-ying, Lee Hing-hong, Yung Wing-po and Lam Shu-wah.

His Lordship spoke a few words in which he praised the work of the Principal of the College, Mr. R. Huang, B.Sc. Bishop Hall impressed on the boys of the school the necessity of having some hobby which would occupy their leisure all through life.

Mr. Yim Chup-ko then made a valedictory speech to the assembled gathering on behalf of the graduating class of 1932.

He said that there was no doubt that Munsang College was impregnated with the Christian spirit. After several years spent under the guidance of the College, they had begun to realize that the main purpose of life was to serve humanity indiscriminately.

His Lordship then presented the prizes.

A vote of thanks was then proposed by the Rev. W. W. Rogers and seconded by Mr. K. T. Tam. Benediction was said by the Rev. A. D. Stewart.

Light refreshments were then served in the school building.

DR. TSO'S SPEECH.

Dr. Tso said:—"On behalf of the College Council I have the great pleasure of welcoming His Lordship, the Bishop of Victoria, to this Assembly Hall; the opening ceremony of which he has so successfully performed. We are grateful indeed to His Lordship for the benediction which he has just pronounced upon the College, and I hope that under the blessings so invoked the College may be given strength and vigour to continue its work of usefulness.

To-day we are greatly honoured by the presence of His Lordship and of Mr. N. L. Smith, the Director of Education. Their presence here will, I feel sure, stimulate all those concerned, particularly members of the College staff who have laboured assiduously and unassumingly for the past years, to further efforts in making the College a still greater success.

The need has long been felt of a Hall, such as this, to give more classrooms and a place for school assembly. It is due to the generosity of our well wishers and supporters, of whom I must mention the names of Messrs. Li Heung-kuk, Ng Keng-yun and Lam Taz-fung, who have donated to the building fund the munificent sums of $1,200, $1,000 and $500 respectively, that this building was erected and opened to-day. On behalf of the College Council I tender to them and other donors, whose names are too many to mention here, our gratitude and heart-felt thanks, in which I must also associate the name of Mr. Huang, Principal of the College, through whose energy and efforts in collecting funds the erection of this Hall was made possible.

SCHOOL REPORT.

In presenting the school report for the seventh school year ending January 1933, the Principal said:

"The year under review embraces events of general interest and successes of great importance in the history of this young school, Munsang, which will be commented on in turn:

Number and Attendance.

I am glad to announce, first of all, that two new members have joined the College Council during the year. They are Hing Shung Mok and Hing Kok Li. Mr. Mok is the son of Mok Kong Sang, one of the founders of this school, and Mr. Li is a prominent merchant in (Continued on Page 9.)

Romance of Two Meals.

Sir Frederick Maurice recalled a good war story recently.

Ten days before Caporetto he made a tour of the Italian defences in the Dolomites with General Cadorna. After a hard morning's work he was taken to a chalet for luncheon. The menu, from the Viennese rolls and fresh butter to the hocks and brandy, was superb. Sir Frederick expressed surprise that so marvellous a meal could be served so close to the trenches.

"Quite simple," said Cadorna. "This chalet is the shooting box of the Austrian Emperor. The man who prepared the meal is the imperial chef."

Sir Frederick was grateful. He asked if he could see the chef, shook hands with him and congratulated him.

The story has a sequel. A few years ago Sir Frederick's sister, arriving to stay with friends in the South of France, was welcomed with a superbly-cooked supper. "Our chef," her hosts explained, "has made a special effort on your behalf. He's cooked for your family before. He says your brother was the only gentleman he met during the war."

New H.A.C. Commander.

The Earl of Denbigh, Colonel Commandant of the Honourable Artillery Company, who is retiring this month, will be succeeded by Viscount Galway.

Lord Galway served in the war as Lieutenant-colonel of the Life Guards. He was mentioned in despatches and was awarded the D.S.O. He commanded the Life Guards for four years until 1923, when he retired. He is interested in politics and has twice stood for Parliament.

Lord Denbigh has been for years in command of the H.A.C. He is 73, and it was the desire to make way for younger men which decided him last year to give up his post.

The H.A.C. had never been more efficient than during Lord Denbigh's command.

Broadcasting for the Empire.

The demands of Empire broadcasting have led to changes in nocturnal life behind the scenes in Portland-place.

Whereas up till now it has been a case of "Good-night, everybody" at eleven o'clock—for the final hour of the home broadcasts has, of course, nearly always been devoted to relayed dance music—the synchronisation of times in the Canadian broadcasts means activity at Broadcasting House until at least three a.m.

Artists who are to perform for Canada listeners arrive from midnight until two o'clock. Endeavours are made to see that live performers shall not be called on after two in order that they may get to bed at a reasonable hour.

Two a.m. Picnics.

Announcers and the engineering staff, too, work on into the small hours. The canteen closes at a blamelessly early hour.

Picnic meals, in which hot soups and other things out of vacuum flasks play important roles, are greatly enjoyed when the last broadcast in the Empire string is done.

Anthony Pini.

Sir Thomas Beecham's young first cellist, Mr. Anthony Pini, who made his name in the much-talked-of performance of Strauss' "Don Quixote" recently, would be taken anywhere for a quiet young Englishman. But his origins, as a matter of fact, are unusual.

His father was a Frenchman of Italian extraction; his mother was a Scotswoman, and he was born at Buenos Aires.

He regards himself as more a Scotsman than anything else, for as a small boy (already a 'cellist') he went with his mother—his father having died—to live in Scotland at Arbroath.

At 17 he became a member of the Scottish Orchestra, and later he was for seven years the 'cellist of the Brona Quartet. His instrument is a fine Grancino.

Lord Carson's Peas.

Lord Carson, who was 80 recently has behind him years of rich retaining fees and bountiful refreshers. It is hoped that his recovery not long ago from a serious illness and severe operation has fitted him to look forward now to more years of tranquillity. Lord Carson always would have it that it was the public, and not he, who piled up the fees—especially when he was being constantly opposed to Rufus Isaacs.

And His Wit.

When a solicitor once haggled at a fee of 500 guineas, Carson agreed that it was "most exorbitant." Taking the solicitor by the arm, Carson showed him the lighted windows in the Temple of many men who would do the job quite as well, so he said, and far more reasonably.

"But," protested the solicitor, "with Rufus Isaacs on the other side, I could not dream of having anyone but you." "Well," Carson answered, "if you are such a fool after all I've shown you, you'll have to pay what my clerk asks you to pay."

Lord Milne of Rubislaw.

The choice by Lord Milne of the territorial title of Rubislaw and Salonia is extremely appropriate in more ways than one. Rubislaw is one of the most famous granite quarries in the world.

It was developed on a very extensive scale by the family of Sir Alexander Gibb, whose father, the great contractor, built Rosyth Dock for the Navy. And now at the War Office one of Lord Milne's principal colleagues is another member of that same family—Gen. Evan Gibb, the Director of Supplies and Transport.

Lord Milne, vacated his post at the War Office recently.

The Duke of Atholl's Army.

When we read that the Duke of Atholl came over to a curling match on Loch Leven "with his army of men all dressed in the full Atholl kit," the word "army" must not be taken entirely in a figurative sense.

The Duke of Atholl is the only subject in Britain who has Royal authority to maintain and equip a private regiment, free from all control by the War Office. Strictly speaking, this was in defiance of the British Constitution.

But when Queen Victoria visited Blair Castle in 1845 she gave an implied sanction to the Duke's little "army" by presenting it with a set of colours.

The "army" was composed of 200 Highland giants, averaging 6ft. high—principally tenants and retainers of the Duke. In an earlier day they were armed with Lochaber axes and claymores; in later days they have had rifles.

T.U.C. Imponderabilia.

No one can question the right of the Socialist and trade union leaders to march to Hyde Park once in every six years or so, if they so desire. Indeed, one could see virtue in the daily practice of such a walk or similar exercise.

These gentlemen, who spend much time in talking round a table, reveal tendencies towards the verbosity of Dr. Johnson, and excel him in substance.

As a reminder to youth that exercise is good for health, I should be all in favour of a moving picture—a very moving picture—of Mr. Bavin, Mr. A.B. Swales, Mr. George Gibson, Mr. George Hicks, M.P., Mr. Arthur Hayday, Mr. Joe Compton, Mr. Will Sherwood, and other of the heavy-weights amongst the Labour leaders stepping out briskly to the music of the band.

U.S. Banking System And Problems

Low Capitalisation Greatly To Blame

COMPETENT SUPERVISION LACKING

(By Kingston Taft Tan.)

As a result of the financial crisis in America the subject of banking and currency immediately becomes one of the great interest in international trade and finance. The mere fact that the banks have been forced to close their doors and that billions of dollars at a time have been tied up in deposits in these institutions makes them so. It was the culmination of a brief period of great prosperity and credit expansion such as every country is likely to have when its money is steadily depreciating because of an increase of supply. To-day other countries, almost equally depressed, have had few or no bank failures. That underlines the lesson. The chief difference between the American banking system and others which have shown a higher capacity for self-preservation is that the American bank is still compelled by law to operate on the old principle of competition among many small units under inefficient and conflicting supervision, while others have been highly centralized and made responsible.

Divided Responsibility.

The other basic defect in American banking—the confused and divided responsibility for supervision—is one of the more remarkable examples of what can be produced by State and Federal authorities operating simultaneously in the same field. First, they have State banks, chartered and supervised by each of the 48 States and operated under laws which in no two of the 48 are uniform. Moreover, most of the states have at least two kinds of banks and banking laws apply, and many have more. Then they have National banks, chartered and supervised by the Comptroller of the Currency—who, as it happens, has practically nothing to do with the currency. The Comptroller also supervises State banks in the District of Columbia. In addition to all these there is the Federal Reserve System, which comprises all the National banks and any state banks able and willing to enter it. The National Banks and the Comptroller's supervision of them come under the National Bank Act, except that as members of the Federal Reserve System they come under the Federal Reserve Act also. This Act prescribes not only for National banks as members of the system, but also for the State banks which are members of it, and lays down the duties of the Federal Reserve Board, which are conditioned by the fact that both the National Banks and the State banks belonging to the system are only partially under its authority.

Farcler Control.

It should be noted that the action for the bank reform is clearly presented in the annual report of the Acting Comptroller of the Currency, who confesses in effect that he can not control the currency and credit machinery of the country very well any more, because "there have been too many small, weak, independent banks in the country since the world war, and they have blossomed and withered so fast that it would take a slow-motion film to keep up with them."

From 1900-1920 there were about 20,000 new banks chartered in these States, about 1,000 a year, largely because of lax State laws and the National Bank Act of 1900 which reduced the maximum capitalization of national banks from $50,000 to $25,000. Since 1902, banks have suspended at the rate of about one every 10 hours, and in the past three years they have folded up at the rate of one every 5 hours, while in 1931 one passed out every 230 minutes.

Readjustment Needed.

The sentiment is moving in this direction for readjustment especially under pressure of business opinion, is reflected in the report of the Banking Committee of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce submitted recently to the usual referendum among its members. The most striking feature of this report is the extent to which it proposes expansion of Federal Reserve Powers in the control of member bank activities. It suggests that they be given authority to deny rediscount privileges to member banks whose operations are endangering their solvency or contributing to unsound credit conditions, and that they be authorized to regulate the affiliation of member banks with non-member banks and with investment companies and supervise the activities of such affiliates. It recommends extension of State-wide branch banking privileges to National and State member banks on equal terms subject to concurrence of State laws and consent of the Federal Reserve authorities. It also suggests a special corporation set up by the Federal Government, the Reserve banks and the member banks to speed liquidation of closed member institutions.

Accumulation Remedy.

However, one of the most vital problems now is that what is the remedy? Some economists say that the bankers must treat their money reserves as a city does its water supply—accumulate it in one or more large reservoirs and be able to send it at once to the spot where it is needed. The bankers of Europe learned long ago that this was the effective way to maintain that confidence which is essential to the solvency and operation of any good banking system. In the United States when financial trouble threatened, each small bank had to depend upon itself.

Moreover, assets of the banks were non-liquid. Most of their loans were local, for there were no banks doing a nation-wide business and none had branches. These loans could not be turned into cash until maturity, and even then had to be renewed, especially in hard times when banks must needed larger cash reserves. To a small extent banks, when pressed for funds, would discount their "customers' notes with other banks more fortunately situated.

Rediscount System.

This practice is known technically as rediscounting. It is the only way in which a bank can convert the great bulk of its assets from "frozen" to liquid form. It is a sign of good judgment. European countries have long enjoyed the full advantages of a rediscount system. There a central bank holds the greater portion of country's banking reserve. The central bank thus effectively controls the market rate of interest and checks on undue expansion of credit as soon as the banks must begin to call upon it for rediscounts.

A study of the recent banking crisis in America reveals that if they had only a few big banks instead of many small ones, and if those banks were members of a single system and under competent supervision. In that case they should have had fewer failures, less bank holidays and a less sharp credit panic than have occurred in the past.

News In Brief.

Six cases of small-pox (one imported), one case of diphtheria occurred on Friday. Of the small-pox cases, four occurred in Victoria and two in Kowloon.

Chan Mei, a Chinese amah working at No. 19 Cumberland Road, was on Friday bitten in the leg by a dog belonging to Mr. Ho Shih-hing of No. 19 Cumberland Road. The amah was taken to the Kowloon hospital, while the dog was sent to Ma-tau-kok for observation.

While erecting electric light bulbs in the back stage of the Peking Theatre on Friday evening, a young Chinese electrician fell off his ladder while reaching for a bulb, and sustained a compound fracture of the left leg. He was rushed to the Kowloon Hospital in an ambulance and is now lying in a serious condition.

A small fire broke out in an unnumbered hut at Sha Tin-yin at about 5.20 p.m. on Friday. When the two engines from Shamshui Police Station arrived, the fire had taken a strong hold on the hut and despite the resistance by the appliances, burnt it to the ground. A small Chinese boy playing with some fire-crackers inside the hut, is reported to have started the fire which caused $200 damage.

Chang Sam, in his report to the Traffic Office on Friday, said that while driving Kowloon motor-bus No. 88 from Hong-Kong to Yuen Long and when near the Chin-wan Police Station, a Chinese third class passenger, jumped off the fast moving bus and was seen to fall heavily. The bus was stopped and the passenger, Kuo Mai-ti, picked up, but he was found to be dead. His body was later removed to the Kowloon Mortuary.

PIANO PLAYING RECORD.

Professional Pianist's 61
Hour Performance.
BIG INTEREST AROUSED.

What is claimed to be a world's record for continuous piano playing was put up by Mr. Percy Cary, a well known local professional pianist. He played without a stop for 61 hours 20 minutes, stating that the record was 60 hours 52 minutes, at present held by America.

Amazing interest was aroused in the performance. Two doctors gave him free attendance. He was shaved by a friendly barber and titivated up by friends. Several women remained with Percy all night. Accompanied by an A.D.C., the Governor-General looked on during the performance. At the close Percy was playing jazz in excellent time. He wanted to continue until midnight, but his friends—the record having been definitely obtained for Percy and Laurence Marques—took him bodily from the piano to a waiting motor car around which there must have been a thousand people.

Eventually a procession was formed and to the accompaniment of deafening hoots, wended its way up the hill to the house of a friend where Percy was medically examined and then put to bed. His wrists were badly swollen but his arms were almost unmarked. During his performance Percy had two bad bouts.—Reuter.

HE SHOWED 'EM!

New York. A man entered an exclusive speak easy in the fashionable district of New York.

"Well, here's the beer," he shouted.

Prohibition agents, who were dismantling the place as result of a raid made the night before followed the man outside, where he obligingly showed them his lorry load of beer.

The prohibition agents then showed him the police station.—Reuter.

285,915 VACCINATIONS LAST WEEK.

The weekly report issued by St. John's Ambulance Brigade, states that during the week ending March 16, 285,915 persons were vaccinated. The Chinese Athletic Association alone dealt with 63,326 while King's College and the Chinese Y.M.C.A. dealt with 30,525 and 22,269 cases respectively.

DEPRESSION BEAUTIFIES AMERICANS

More Character In Average Face.

BELGIAN ARTIST'S VIEWS.

New York. Americans' faces are growing more interesting and more beautiful as a direct result of current economic troubles, believes Mrs. Angèle Watson, the Belgian artist.

"Your faces are becoming more like those of Europeans," the Belgian artist said. "I have been in this country for six years and I have been watching the change. Back in the boom days you had, of course, many pretty women and handsome men, yet there was something lacking. There was little character or soul showing in the average face. It was just vivaciousness and excitement."

"But in the last few years American troubles have made people think. An artist can see that in their faces. Personality is beginning to come out. And that makes for beauty, from the artist's point of view."

"The difference between a European and an American used to be that the European's character was revealed in his face. That made Europeans more interesting subjects for portraits. Now I find Americans equally interesting."

"Even 17-year-old girls, whose very faces used to show they had no character and that their only thoughts were of pretty clothes, are fascinating to me now, for I can see the birth of ideas in their very expressions."

"It's all been caused by the depression, which is making Americans think more seriously about life."

Mrs. Watson, whose husband is head of a large New York hospital, said she finds American women have more thoughtful expressions than American men.

"The main thing I have learned from studying the faces of American men," she said with a smile, "is that your 'hardest' businessmen, once they are out of their offices, become kind, considerate and not at all 'hard-boiled.'"

PRIZE-DAY AT MUNSANG COLLEGE.

Hong Kong who, has generously given towards the building fund of this Assembly Hall. Both take great interest in our work and in the name of the school we wish to welcome them.

The highest number of students on record was 420 as against 350 of the previous year. This number includes 65 boarders. It shows an increase of 56 students or an increase of 18 per cent. There were altogether 30 teachers, 21 of whom were working at full time and 9 part time. School was opened on 240 desks and the average attendance was 83.6 per cent.

Scholastic Successes.

We presented 7 boys for the University Matriculation Examinations. Five candidates were successful; four passed the Matriculation and one qualified for the Senior Local. One of our candidates, Li Wai-cheung, succeeded in gaining the Government Scholarship.

I am glad to say, for the first time, we have two old boys studying in Hong Kong University.

In the Junior Local Examinations we also entered 7 boys, and the result was a one hundred per cent pass. Besides we have obtained 5 distinctions in English and Mathematics. The record of this school for the three previous years in succession has been 50 per cent, pass, and now in the result of the two examinations combined we have made a record among the Hong Kong Schools (85.7 per cent.).

Athletics and Health.

In athletics the students have made rapid progress. This school is very grateful to several land owners for placing their large playground at our disposal, free of rent. It has been extensively used by the students all the year round. On it we have one Volleyball court, two tennis courts and three basketball courts. The ground has been used every morning for setting-up exercises for boarders. A teacher is now devoting his full time as the School Sports Master.

Practically every scholar in the school had enjoyed good health throughout the year. The Medical Officer for Schools, Dr. E. M. Minett visited the school on two occasions during the year and we are very thankful to her for her invaluable suggestions for improvement in health matters.

Inspector's Visit.

Mr. A. O. Brown, Inspector of English Schools, visited us on May and again in November. The following is an extract taken from his report:—"I visited Munsang College and was again favourably impressed by its pleasant location, good playground and zealous staff who seem particularly interested in the moral and physical welfare of their charges—one result being particularly good tone in the school," again, he said, in his second report, "Discipline—ex-

Standing The Test Of The World

Pontius Pilate's Part In Drama Of Calvary

MORAL BACKBONE IN LIFE

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

[The fourth of a series of articles on the Characters of the Cross.]

In the grim drama of the Cross, the name of Pontius Pilate stands out above all others.

And yet his condemnation of Christ was no momentary weakness. It was overshadowed by his earlier conduct and intercourse with the Jews. His previous administration had been one long contest between Roman insolence and Jewish fanaticism.

One of his first acts on becoming Procurator of Judaea was to move the Headquarters of his army from Caesarea to Jerusalem, and bring with him the Standards of his Legions. The people were aroused to fury, and only after five days of sullen obstinacy, and ill treatment of the Jews, did Pilate at length yield to the frenzied mob.

Then too, he had taken the sacred money of the Temple Treasury to construct an aqueduct. This had led to another tumult, and a massacre, not only of the rioters, but of innocent spectators. He was hated and loathed by the Jews, and the sentiment was entirely mutual.

It was the time of the Passover, and Pilate had moved to Jerusalem to be at hand in case any riot should arise from religious frenzy. Before him, and on trial for his life stood Jesus of Nazareth, arraigned on three charges.

1. Perverting the nation, this was conspiracy.

2. Forbidding the people to pay tribute to Caesar, this was revolution.

3. He claiming to be a King, this was treason.

Very serious charges if they were true. But he had been long enough in his province to know that such charges would be an occasion of rejoicing on the part of his countrymen, who were only too ready to rise in revolt, and assist anyone who offered to lead them to victory. He knew it was a cover to conceal some deep design. He knew that the authority of the Jewish Priesthood had been threatened by this man, that through envy they wanted him removed.

A brief examination confirmed Pilate's intuition. Then he asked him "Are you really a king?" The answer came back, "Yes, I came to be a king, but also to bear witness to the truth, and Pilate every true man hears my voice." Do you see the love of it all? Pilate was not asked to believe something for which he was unprepared, but just to be true to the vision of justice to a just man, the vision for which, as a Roman Governor, Pilate stood.

"Pilate, am I a true man or not?" Pilate knew perfectly well, and he did what thousands of men have done when faced with the same question, shrugged their shoulders, and murmured "After all what is truth?"

Untrue To The Truth. He had his chance, and failed. Why? Because he dared not face public opinion. He could not face conscience.

School's Ideal. I think it appropriate at each prize-giving to review the objects and principles for which this school exists. The word "Munsang" means literally, "People's Life," and strictly speaking, this school exists for the people. We aim to serve the community, especially for the people of Kowloon, and we are entitled therefore to the support of the public.

Teach that which give intelligence and skill; but forget not soul culture, for out of this comes the more abundant life bringing forth the fruits of the spirit for:

We are glad to welcome His Lordship, the Bishop of Victoria, here with us to-day. We wish to thank him for the honour of his presence, and for the interest that he has shown in this school. We also wish to express our deep gratitude to our chairman, the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso, for his continued interest in our work and for so kindly providing a second report.

his past indiscretions being reported to Rome. The moment he began to hedge, he changed from a man of principle to a man of expediency. Then he tried to put his conscience on the shoulders of the crowd. He had him scourged and said to them "Surely this is enough." They said "No, He must be crucified."

His heart now there crept a touch of fear. He went back to Christ and said "Are you of heaven or of earth?"

This time there was no reply. Once you have handed truth over to the crowd, and mocked it, its deep things are no longer yours. Pilate had been untrue to the truth, and when he tried to jockey the truth into justice, Truth stood silent.

Once he let go of the truth, and compromised on an issue where he could have been true, he let in a stream of consequences, until finally he condemned to death, in the name of justice the one just Man Who has ever lived, and then tried to wash his hands of the whole affair.

How often people have said, since "But Pilate did not know Whom he was condemning. He thought He was only a carpenter." Does that make it any different? Justice is justice whether the man is a prince or a peasant. The pride of Rome was its utterly impartial justice, which Pilate was there to uphold. As a Governor, who failed in his elementary duty, and as a man who failed through lack of moral courage, he stands condemned.

"The world to-day is full of Pilates. When they are faced with the truth of Christ, they shrug their shoulders, and ask "What is truth?" And when you get behind the clever phrase, you find a moral decision which they are not prepared to make. They try to make the crowd their conscience—After all, everyone else does it. But like Pilate the decision is never the crowd's, but their own.

They say, "Yes, but I don't really know what I believe about Christ, how can I follow Him unless I am really sure?" And it is Pilate over again. Asking abstract questions, when all the time there is a plane on which you can judge, the moral plane. Is there anyone who does not believe that Christ was the greatest moral teacher in human history? Very well then, accept Him on the plane where you can judge. Start to get your morals in line with His, and the other problems will disappear. You will find your fears of the crowd were mostly bogies.

Moral Choice. What we are up against in the world to-day is moral choice, and moral decision, not intellectual problems at all.

Pilate stands as the brilliant powerful man, who had his chance, but who cracked at the very point where he ought to have been strong—his justice. He could not stand the test of the world. The world, entirely disregarding His claims, does this and that, and because we have not the moral backbone to be different, we fall into line and do the same.

The end of Pilate you know. He was recalled to Rome in disgrace, and being banished into Gaul, he took his own life. He lost his soul, not because of any arbitrary act against Christ, but because he failed to be true to the vision for which he stood.

One last thing. If we are true to Christ as we find Him on the lowest plane,—try and get our lives in line with His, we shall end in worshipping Him. If we deny Him on that plane we shall end up as Pilate did, washing our hands of the whole affair and saying that religion is not for us.

Once a man has seen Christ, he must follow or deny. He must, or crucify Him.

In the Creed there are two things side by side. Born of the Virgin Mary. Suffered under Pontius Pilate. That is true of all life. Christ will be born in us, as He was born in Mary, or else He will suffer under us, even as He suffered under Pilate.

Record Car Sales In Great Britain

Good Figures For Year 1932

EXPORTS GREATLY IMPROVED

London. THE British automobile production year ended September 30 shows a healthy increase in output compared to the previous year — a particularly good sign for a twelve-month period when British industry generally was anything but flourishing. According to unofficial but reliable figures, the output of private cars in the production year recently closed was 168,579 units, compared with 160,460 units for the preceding year; or a quantitative increase of more than 6 per cent.

Satisfactory progress for the British motor manufacturers in the fields of increased exports and decreased imports of cars is also evidenced by the latest available figures. The export side of the trade, both in the private and commercial car field continues to expand. The October shipment of cars and chassis totalled 3,958 units, compared with 1,756 units for the same month last year. Commercial vehicles totalled 659 as against 410.

Ten Months' Period Reviewed. For the ten months ended with October, shipments of cars and chassis numbered 23,240 units, compared with 14,430 in 1931, and commercial vehicles and chassis 6,675, compared with 4,418. At the same time, imports of all classes of motor vehicles, parts and accessories have fallen off sharply. In October only ninety-seven pleasure and three commercial vehicles were imported as against 307 and 7 for the same month in 1931, though for the ten-month period there was little change in the comparative figures for the two years.

Home Sales Increase. There also has been a noticeable improvement in the home market. During October last 13,338 new cars were registered for use, compared with 10,018 for the same month in 1931. For the three months ended with October last there was an increase of 9,822 over the number registered during the same period in 1931.

The last few months have shown a distinct change in automobile fashion in this country. For the previous production year and for a good part of the one which recently closed the "baby" eight horse-power car easily was the favourite in the field on account of its low annual tax (£3), its low gasoline and oil consumption and its economy on tyres. Now, however, there has been a great increase in the production and sale of ten horse-power models, which have supplanted the smaller car in the leading position.

10 H.P. Popular. This tendency illustrated by registration for ten horse-power cars for August, which for the first time, exceeded the figures for eight horse-power cars. In September this trend was strengthened and there were 671 ten horse-power cars registered, as against 2,000 of the smaller class.

FOR THESE KIND WORDS

Sir Malcolm Campbell On Motor Cyclists.

Motor cyclists have become so familiar with adverse criticism at the hands of those who utilise their positions to give rein to their prejudice that it is doubly pleasant for them to hear remarks such as those made by Sir Malcolm Campbell, the holder of the world's land speed record, at a recent dinner.

After relating how he graduated as a motor cyclist, he gave it as his considered opinion that there was no better way of becoming acquainted with the mechanical side of motoring and acquiring road sense than as a motor cyclist. He praised motor cyclists' skill and knowledge, and belauded the wonderful fellowship of the road that exists among them.

These remarks, says "The Motor Cycle," make pleasant hearing; they are also valuable to the movement as a whole, for they come from a non-entirety, but from a man who is famed the world over, and who speaks from personal knowledge.

Bid For European Markets

Amsterdam Motor Show Concludes.

One of the most important Continental Motor Shows of the whole year is the Amsterdam Exhibition, which has recently been held. Dealers from all over Europe were present, as the 1933 American models were on view for the first time, the New York Show preceding by only a short period.

British manufacturers are now making a determined bid for the European markets and among the firms who exhibited were the Singer Co., who showed a Fourteen, a 2-litre saloon and coupe, and a Kaye Don coupe, besides various examples of the Nine. The Rolls-Royce Co. had on view one of their 40/60 h. p. chassis, with a Pullman saloon by Hoopers, and a 20/25 h. p. chassis.

This is yet another proof of the big effort to capture foreign markets, for it is the fourth exhibi-

SIDECAR T. T. RACE

In Isle Of Man In June.

That there will be a sidecar class in the T. T. Races in the Isle of Man in June, subject to the event attracting a sufficient number of entries, is now certain. But (asks "The Motor Cycle") why limit the event to sidecar machines? Three-wheeled runabouts are motor cycles; at present they have no road races in which they can demonstrate their capabilities, and to throw open the race to all passenger motor cycles would invest it with new interest.

It would also aid the development of the three-wheeler and enable it to prove to the world at large that to-day this type of machine is an eminently sound, stable vehicle, worthy of the very closest consideration by those desiring motor cycle performance and car protection at motor cycle cost.

tion this season abroad at which British cars have been represented. The results of all have shown that there is a marked tendency at the present time for Europe to buy British.

Rubber Wings For Cars

Likely To Be Expensive.

BRITAIN EXPERIMENTS.

A rubber factory in England is experimenting, with rubber wings, but they are going to be somewhat expensive. For many years unbreakable wings have been urged because, being so vulnerable, most minor accidents involve expensive replacements for wings (says "The Motor").

The experimental work is being carried out by the Silvertown Co. So far they find the disadvantages outweigh the advantages. Each type of motor-car would require four separate moulds. These moulds are expensive, and the work could only be carried out at a rubber factory, where they have special facilities for treating rubber. In order to obtain the high finish comparable with the metal wing, the surface of each mould would have to be chromium plated; this adds still more to the first cost of the moulds.

Another difficulty that would be encountered is the difference in the time element of the two processes. In metal a wing can be pressed out in one minute. In rubber, including the necessary "curing" process, it takes 30 minutes, so that the plant would have to be increased at least 30 times to enable rubber production to rival that of metal. The cost of such a plant for each set of wings to a single motor-car manufacturer's specification would be in the neighbourhood of £30,000. Further, it has been found that a rubber wing of the correct strength would prove to be very much heavier than metal wing of similar size.

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more.

Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring" — a Packard characteristic for a third of a century.

So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved — like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower — it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

FAREWELL BOWLS

Mr. F. L. Rapley, President of the Club, in a brief speech at the conclusion of the match, said: "We are shortly losing one of our oldest members—Mr. Willie Russell—and we are met this evening to say 'au revoir' to him. This afternoon's game was arranged in his honour and I am very glad such a large number of bowlers took part. To-day's turnout of bowling members of this Club is the biggest I can remember and it says much for Mr. Russell's popularity and for the high esteem in which he is held by you all."

"Mr. Russell joined this Club in 1904—nearly thirty years ago. He has been on the Committee almost continuously and he was President in 1909. For over twenty years he was grounds convener and I believe he made himself famous for the way he kept the greens and for his wonderful vegetable garden. Some years ago he was made a Life Member for his services to the Club. He was one of the pioneers and is one of the men we have to thank for the excellent Club we have to-day."

"As a bowler he has had numerous successes—at last year's Inter-Club Dinner we heard him described as 'the grand old man of bowls in Hong Kong.' He was Open Champion of the Colony in 1912 and 1913 and he also reached the final in 1914 and 1923. In 1914 the final was not played off—to the relief of his opponent and in 1923 he was only second."

"Except for a period when he was lent to the Yacht Club to teach them something about the ancient game he has skipped for us regularly since the inception of the league. He also skipped the 'tag-of-war team' that went to Shanghai to play bowls in 1918—the famous 'big four'—Russell, Bond, Harvey and Gerrard."

"Reference to our own honours board shows that he won the Club Championship three times—in 1907, 1909 and 1929 as well as the Vice President's Prize in 1909 and the President's in 1916. 1909 must have been one of Willie's big years for as I have already mentioned he was President in that year and he won two of the three principle competitions—the Championship and the Vice President's Prize. Only modestly prevented him winning the other event—the President's."

"As many of you will remember 'Attaboy' in making his Closing Day speech in 1929 remarked that Mr. Russell was making a habit of winning the Championship every twenty years. He won it in 09 and 29 and he would probably win it again in 1949. That is why we are only saying 'au revoir'—we expect him to come back here again if only to fulfil Mr. Warren's prophecy!"

"As, by the way, Mr. Russell is going home via Canada, I will ask him to convey to Mr. and Mrs. Warren our heartfelt greetings and good wishes."

"Besides bowling Mr. Russell has two other hobbies. Eating olives and trying to catch fish. It is calculated that he has consumed more olives than any other member, and he is the joint holder with 'wee Hughie' of the Fishing endurance record—19 consecutive week-ends without a bite."

"He has a number of bowling expressions of his own of which his 'shut one gate' and 'easy boy easy' are perhaps the most familiar. He is the personification of cheerfulness and the possessor of a hearty and infectious laugh—a laugh you can tell the time by for when it becomes continuous you know it to be about half past seven."

"We shall miss his 'easy boy easy,' his laugh and all the other Russellisms but we shall always remember him for his cheerfulness, his good nature and his good fellowship."

"Mr. Russell, it gives me much pleasure to hand you on behalf of

MR. RUSSELL REPLIES.

Mr. Russell replied as follows. It is a great honour for me to be here to-day and play the last game of what I shall probably play for some time. I thank you for your hearty good wishes and thank you for your presents—both are much appreciated.

To-day's games were very much in my favour. I will leave my friend Mr. Gow to rumble in his snout over his defeat.

My services to the Club have always been given with my best wishes. When I joined the Club we had a match and it was not till after that the old Club-house was built. The Club membership was then limited to 100 out of which there were fifty bowlers.

There was not much tennis then. Where the new tennis courts are there was a swamp where I used to shoot snipe. I have marvelled at the growth of the club.

We had the best members in the Colony for bowls and tennis. Tennis has become more important than it was twenty years ago.

I am very pleased to see such a fine clubhouse on my retirement and will again thank you for your kindness and good wishes—kindness in presenting me with this typewriter and dressing case, and also for your good wishes.

Cheers were then given for Mr. Russell and the meeting broke up to the strains of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The Scroll.

The illuminated scroll which was read out by Mr. B. Wylie was as follows:

Kowloon Bowling Green Club, Kowloon, Hong Kong.

On the occasion of your retirement from the Colony it is the wish of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club to record its deep appreciation of the unstinted services so freely given by you during your lengthy association with the Club, and in some small manner to indicate the high esteem in which you have been, and still are, held by its members.

Joining the Club nearly thirty years ago, you have been one of its keenest bowlers and most enthusiastic members, and apart from serving on its General Committee for years, you occasionally with distinction and ability held the office of President.

Throughout the whole period of your membership you have by your unfailing and cheerful encouragement to others, been not only a source of information to the younger players but also the admiration of the older members of the Club.

Your prowess on the bowling green has been attested by the fact that on no fewer than three occasions you have been adjudged champion of the Colony and have thus brought honour on the Club which you have served so well.

That you may enjoy good health,

Recreio Defeat Champions

The first half opened promisingly for the Recreio who took play into their opponents' half and very nearly scored when M. Remedios narrowly missed from a difficult angle.

The Recreio maintained pressure and were rewarded when A. Alves scored a good goal after snatching up a weak clearance by Miss Owen-Hughes.

In the second half Hong Kong showed improvement, and were continually on the attack. Mrs. Alun-Jones and H. Knill were conspicuous for a number of dangerous raids, one of which materialised when H. Knill broke through to equalise.

The Recreio were not disheartened, however, and were successful almost immediately, when M. Alves scored a brilliant goal as the result of a solo effort from the half way line.

Hong Kong attacked continuously until the final whistle, but E. Blackburn on the left wing proved too weak in ball control to take advantage of her opportunities.

The Recreio last game is against the "Y" Ladies when they are favoured to register their fifth success.

Hong Kong: Miss M. Bird; Miss A. Owen-Hughes and Miss B. Franklin; Miss J. Dalziel, Miss E. O'Hagan and Miss E. Bell; Miss H. Knill, Mrs. Alun-Jones, Miss P. Harrop (captain), Miss J. Churchill and Miss E. Blackburn.

Recreio: Miss D'Almeida; Miss M. Basto and Miss C. Osmund; Miss L. Xavier, Miss M. Alves and Miss H. Guterres; Miss B. Remedios, Miss O. Oliveira, Miss C. Silva, Miss A. Alves and Miss M. Remedios.

NAVY LOWER DECK BEAT JATS.

One of the fastest games seen on the Marina ground was played on Friday last, when the Navy Lower Deck secured a well deserved victory over the 3/9th Jat Regiment by 6 goals to 5.

Abbot registered the "hat trick" for the Navy, and McCrae (2) and Richardson (1) added the remaining goals.

MEDWAY DRAW WITH "Y"

At King's Park yesterday the Medway second hockey eleven drew with the Y.M.C.A. "A" in a scrappy game, both sides scoring twice.

S. Fowler scored for the "Y" and Hall equalised before half time. In the second half the Medway took the lead through Allen, but G. Fowler equalised just on time.

Since Fairbanks, a former Detroit newspaper man and general manager of the Boston Madison Square Garden, claimed the veteran gelding, he has won $20,000 in purses.—Associated Press.

GOOD NEWS FOR ALCOHOLICS

New Cures Found By Scientists.

AMERICAN DISCOVERY

Ithaca, New York. Evidence that chronic alcoholic cases often can be cured by the use of sodium rhodanate is reported produced by experiments by scientists of Cornell University.

In a report published in the proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, the statement that delirium tremens has also been relieved by "peptization therapy" was made by Dr. Bancroft, professor of physical chemistry, and two assistants. Their conclusion, said the report, is that "chronic alcoholism is benefitted by treatment with sodium rhodanate" and that "all chronic alcoholics on whom sodium rhodanate can be used safely can be cured if there is only a physical need for alcohol."

Under the new treatment, alcoholics are reported to return to normal very quickly.

Dr. Bancroft recently was honoured by the American Chemical Society for research in dealing with insanity, epilepsy and narcotic addiction.—Reuter.

"IGLOO"

EWING SCOTT, THE DIRECTOR, TELLS THRILLING TALE OF THE DANGERS ENCOUNTERED.

This is the story of a desperate battle with the elements on the ice-bound Alaskan coast at Point Barrow and is told by Ewing Scott, author and director of "Igloo," the season's greatest novelty which is playing at the Central Theatre to-day.

With an expedition embracing only a full-blooded Eskimo, a cameraman, a camera and 100,000 feet of negative film, Scott set out from Hollywood on his great adventure, and at Fairbanks, Alaska, chartered two airplanes at a cost of $3,000.00 to transport men and equipment to Point Barrow.

"Even at this early stage of our operations," says Scott, "the weather threatened to play havoc with our plans. The airplanes had intended to stay overnight, so that we might be sure that the village contained sufficient supply of food and clothing for our long stay among the Eskimos. But a blizzard was forming, and the pilots dared not remain in their unsheltered position a moment longer than necessary. Later that day we engaged a dog team, and had our equipment transported to shore and to a one-room shack which had been offered us as our home—for three men.

"Chee-Ak, the Eskimo who had accompanied us from Hollywood, was to play the leading role in the picture, and as other members of the cast I selected about 50 natives in the village. Several men were engaged to construct a little village of ice igloos, and we were soon ready to begin actual filming.

"But for weeks and months we were able to work only intermittently, on account of the lack of sunshine. For a week or more the sky would be dark and overcast, and then would come a day on which we might be able to work for an hour or two. Terrible storms raged for days at a time, and on two occasions reduced our carefully built igloo village to a heap of ruins. However, we rebuilt at once, and waited for sunshine.

"Eventually, however, we secured all our scenes in the igloo settlement, and then prepared to film the sequences showing the migration of the Eskimos over the ice in search of the open sea and food. But the native village was ravaged by an epidemic of influenza, and before it was over ten per cent. of the inhabitants died. For weeks it seemed that we would lose the old man who was playing the part of the father in "Igloo." I myself was stricken, but I was only off my feet for one day. I was in a position where I simply could not afford to be sick.

"We spent seven months in the Arctic, and there were only twenty-one days on which we could work. It was a gruelling experience, and we battled hard for every inch of film, but the result of the trip have caused me to decide that it was worth all the effort it cost. "Igloo" has been pronounced a success—and that is what we were trying to make."

ARTIFICIAL RUBBER FROM ACETYLENE.

Discovery By Soviet Chemist.

Moscow.
A process of making artificial rubber from acetylene has been discovered by the Soviet chemist, Academician Zelinsky, according to a news agency.
There are already several works in the Soviet Union producing artificial rubber with the aid of alcohol.
But Academician Zelinsky's method of using acetylene is based, it is claimed, on a much cheaper raw material.
The construction of a plant for making rubber by Zelinsky's method is already in hand.
During the world war, Zelinsky designed a special type of gas-mask. — Reuter.

HONOURING WILLIAM OF ORANGE.

400th Anniversary Of Royal House.

Berlin.
Preparations are being made for the celebration of the 400th anniversary of the Royal House of the Netherlands, whose founder, William of Orange, was born on April 24, 1533 in Dillen-burg near Diez-on-the-Lahn.
In connection with this, the two so-called "company wings" of the Oranienstein Palace have been removed, leaving in its original form the baroque structure of the seventeenth century.
The preparations are being carried on by the cities of Nassau in co-operation with the Government of the Netherlands. — Reuter.

WHITE PAPER CONDEMNED IN LONDON PRESS.

The Daily Mail thinks that the proposals constitute a
"perilous experiment," while the Daily Express interprets them as a surrender.
The Labour Party organ, the Daily Herald, states that the new constitution is not good enough.
The Times issues an eight-page supplement setting out the details of the main document, and emphasises the need for a detailed study before making any comment. — Reuter.

PROBATION FOR LIFE UNDER WIFE.

probation for the rest of his life"
by a Judge. His "probation officer" is his wife, a lawyer, who revealed that she and Dello were married about six months ago. —

TELEPHONE REVIEW REVELATIONS.

Polish Lines Used The Most.

Budapest.
In Britain there are only 712 conversations per telephone annually compared with Hungary's 3,257.

Poland has the largest number of conversations on each telephone, according to the Hungarian Statistical Review. Hungary comes second and Britain last.

Some critics of these figures here suggest that the reason for Britain's position is the traditional silence of Englishmen. —
